How does somebody distinguish between "vibrating" and "speaking" from an audio clip?

...

...Imho this is what cobra is alluding to in his latest post, about "advanced RTRs" and "varying levels of ability". The user is supposed to learn the basics/advanced magik and apply it to the RTRs.

Basically, yes.

However, as has been stated before, all of these methods are going to work:

1. Vibrated in literal chant, drawn out words. Works.
2. Vibrated very little in spoken way, very short vibrations. Works.
3. Doing it in the way HPS Maxine does in the audios, in a sense, uttering it. Works.
4. Whispering it. Works.
5. Saying it mentally with intent and visualization. Works.

I know there are some reasons why the differences here may not be really clear, but I will articulate all of these in posts in the actual JoS. All of this are different levels of action but work based on the same major rules. There are many things that need to be cleared up.

I have done ALL of the above under different circumstances, with the impact being as it should be on each.

However, the two methods that stand out is method 1 and 3. Methods 1 and 3 for this ritual are really powerful, and give out maximum output.

In regards to the others, 4 and 5, for the lack of the technique, you can compensate with mental focus, visualization, and force of will. They can become equal to 1, 2 and 3, just because of this addition.

2 is also very handy and powerful, combining shorter time, and the benefits of 1 and 3. The reason why vibrations are to be stretched, can help your mental focus while you stretch them.

All in all, ALL OF THESE WORK! Magick is based on energy and intent, primarily.

This and much more will be articulated and explained in depth in other posts and direct JoS Updates. Hopefully, after some projects are concluded, the wave of new arriving knowledge will be helpful to many.
