Almost everything appears to be fully functional again. Thank Satan, things are now better than before by a long shot.

In the future, even if the main websites are down, The Forums are going to be up and vice versa. There are going to be further implementations.

Please if you have time do report that they show up for you also. I believe they should.

There are going to be updates from now on, on all the sites, after important fundamental work is done. The Library will get new material + updates.
