

Telepathic Communication

One of the most important things regarding telepathic communication is to know it can be inaccurate at times and because it is filtered through the pineal, it can be off.

In addition, there is still a lot we don't know regarding the mind. I've been communicating telepathically with our Gods, and spirits for close to 20 years now and there have been times the verbal messages have been off.

This sort of thing happens and everyone should be aware of it. This has to do with the pineal gland, which makes telepathic communication universal, in that foreign languages are converted into one's own spoken language.

Know that in the case of verbal miscommunication, our Gods also communicate through strong feelings, intuitions and ideas. These take precedence over any verbal communications.

Meditation will open your mind to your intuition and gut feelings. This is extremely important to always remember. In closing, always be aware of enemy spirits deceiving.

Our Gods would never give bad advice or tell any one of us to do anything harmful. Also, they do not give negative prophecy regarding our personal lives and fate. That is of the enemy. The enemy is sadistic, human hating and cruel and is known to give negative prophecy.

"Thanks a lot, High Priestess. But I wonder; if you with your 20 years can occasionally get it wrong, what are we to do?! And is there no way to fully get it right and be open all the time? I'd think Kundalini ascensions would help with it. But since HPS have theirs raised... Do we need to wait until Godhood?

Second question: The Gods do not give negative prophecies but what if things are going south? Do they just warn us with a positive mindset, then?

Thanks for the answers in advance. Have a great day

Not all HPS have their serpent raised, all of them are very advanced however both in ideology, knowledge of their fields, and spiritual strength and knowledge. This is another common misconception that was created by some individuals randomly and then took a life of its own, who had not much to offer but hoaxes about the above.

When you don't do jack shit about a community, "BUT MUH SUPREME SERPENT" is used as an argument, it clearly means you are not doing what you should be doing which is your job.

Service > claims.

HPS Maxine, 20 years of experience, humble about communications.

Random Infiltrator, joined last sunday, here to instruct everyone, they are a god, they are a high priest (priest of priests of priests actually), and of course they know everything there is.

Fitting name then.

The "risen serpent" of random weak ass idiots has become a meme I don't feel like I want to participate in. Random guy in twitter, claims serpent. Random kike on drugs, claims serpent. Random person claims to be direct descendant of X. Random person claims superior to Clergy. "risen serpent" can't put a sentence properly to explain how supremely magnificent they are. If they can, they just create a monologue so we can accept their superiority. Mighty wisdom guys asked for a question, they just answer BS that leads nowhere.

A lot of people sound more like fallen cockroaches and attention whores to me, not "risen serpents". It's a game I don't really wanna play with this community personally.

When something IS, then it *IS*. Let me answer it in another way, it's hard to not listen to a tank when it comes across your neighborhood.

Others spend time to just convince us they are war-tanks and not playmobiles.

Alright.

Sikhism is a waste of time its basically Islam and most Sikh's don't like Bhajan anyway. Bhajan was initiated into spiritual practices outside of the Sikh religion. I could get deep into the Hindu metaphysics within Sikhism but its lost all meaning to Sikh's. Just knock on the top of your noggin.
