

About New Meditation Section

Post by HP. Hoodedcobra666

Thu Sep 30, 2021 1:04 am

I am writing this to prepare people in regards to the New Meditation Section. The update will be cumulative, and updates of each new page will be posted on the Updates section on JoS. Meditations will also be posted here and then be posted on the site, but will become available on the site only after at least quite a few of them are up.

In the new meditations section, except of power meditations, there will be two more sections. A later section will be added down in time too.

The amount of work this requires is egregious, and this also has to do with planning and correct timely execution. Therefore I will keep it short and skip fast forward here.

Over the years, I have been very seriously meditating. Except of keeping major necessary silence, I have shared a lot of knowledge elaborating on subjects already known and so on.

The Joy of Satan has had the most wonderful system of meditation. All of the "Satanic" sects understand it, even those who are enemies to us. They come to us for power and getting meditation to work. Yet, they foolishly disregard all of this information is from the Gods, whose providence is reflected onto the Joy of Satan and then reflected onto the readers.

Even the enemy does know this and this is one of the reasons they have tried their earnest to shut us all down. We have stabilized, but don't forget that a few months earlier, we were almost entirely shut down. Needless to say, we have to go against the tide here. But the tide of the upcoming Satanic Aeon is slowly shifting to our advantage.

And that is about to become even better right now. Better meaning, more complete. I mean I don't understand why people don't simply join the Gods and their bastion on earth, so that they can speed-rocket their advancement, but they instead insist to follow the fools and the lower, but that is beyond me and that's their personal choice.

The JoS strongly reflects the knowledge and power of the Gods on Earth.

Due to massive destruction of spiritual knowledge, literally whole segments of meditation have been removed from the populace. By whole segments, I mean whole categories of meditation.

The above may sound confusing for people who don't have a clear view on meditation, but since many people here do what we broadly refer to as Power

Meditation. Power Meditation is very important and the core of meditation. However, there are other forms of meditation that are also equally important and have a strong direct correlation with growing the abilities of the mind and soul.

In Ancient Texts, there are leftovers and tidbits of other types of meditation, other than what we refer to as Power Meditation. An example of these are Buddhist meditations and mental exercises. In Buddhism, because they wanted to hide from them the Power Meditations, they have kept them only doing random mental exercises.

Yet even Buddhist texts do insist on all sorts of forms of transcendental and other meditations. Another example, is the Mandala Meditation or how you can meditate using a Mandala. There is no real explanation for these other than "Look at the Dot" and other things like that. Gurus in the East however know very well how to use these, and how powerful these meditations can be.

Toth has been master of all this, guiding humanity since recorded history [and before that], teaching humanity Satan's teachings directly. A lot of this update will be done because of the council of Him and of course other Gods. The cumulative advancement of people and the timing is now more fitting than ever before.

This could never be done in 2005, where most people were coming from already corrupted occult backgrounds. In our case, many of us have been "bred and grown" in the correct teachings, and many here have been with the JoS for years, or have had the luck to have instantly been presented with the JoS, rather than have to go through many other teachings or even enemy teachings prior. This can give clarity.

Now, if one only does Power Meditation, all they will do is increase power but that is not all of meditation. It's the most integral part, but not all of it. There is not much more left to add on this section, the people who master all that is already in it, will undoubtedly receive power and also their astral and material body will be strengthened.

The powerful constructed soul is to be used and utilized afterwards, and the same goes for sharpening the mind, intellect and so on. Then, one becomes a complete "Soul". To make matters a bit more complex, next levels of meditation also deal with what we call as the "Godhead" or "Equality With God".

God here of course has nothing to do with the bullshit the Abrahamics or the Bible has ever said or implied. This is an occult statement for discovering the Power of "God" every human being does possess.

Having worked for years and constantly face to face with the Gods, I have come to understand the importance of bringing this to awareness, but also help accelerate this with concrete methodology. That will accelerate progress for many but also give people a better ability to deal with their own life.

These two new categories of meditation, will include what I will name as "Awareness meditations" and "Ascent Meditations".

In the Awareness meditation category, there will be a lot of meditations that are crucial for people to raise their understanding, mental clarity, self knowledge and so on. None of this exists in the current Power Meditation section.

The third category will be "Ascent" meditations. This is the most difficult for me to verbally describe, but broadly, these will deal with personal purification meditation [such as when we do workings to remove obstacles from our life], but also to raise the soul to higher levels of existence [and therefore the Serpent] and how to do other meditations.

Each of these sections will have a Beginner Section, an Intermediate Section and an Advanced Section. As one meditates, they should try to do all the meditations in all the main category, mastering them, and then moving onto the next one.

The meditations in the new categories won't be many to begin with, but more will be progressively added. They don't need to be that many either. But they will be very important to help people balance out all sorts of imbalances necessary to bring the soul higher.

The idea is to build the soul as a whole, having the mind following behind it, and the spirit. I know these words may be confusing but all these will be answered in the new meditation section.

I'll keep posted with other updates. By the end of the updating of this section, some meditations may have been moved around [in a more appropriate category]. For example, Past Life Regression will be moved to Awareness Meditations section, and Void Meditation will exist in both the Power Meditation and Awareness Meditation category. Past Life Regression will be moved on the Advanced Level in the same section, while Void will remain in beginners for both.

In the meantime nothing will be affected in the JoS as it is, until a large amount of this already complete. It had to be stated however so everyone will understand better when they see it.

HAIL SATAN!!!!!!

- High Priest Hooded Cobra 666