

Hell and the Afterlife for Advanced Souls

In this sermon there will be a description to further the understanding about the Afterlife. As I have related in previous posts on the subject [read on my writings if you need to], I will go revisit them and clarify them way further, but also add new information.

In regards to the level of "Hell" described by HPS Maxine, that is the first layer of the first place where the regular souls go, alongside the general level of souls.

These souls cannot take much light and therefore have to exist in this state in the afterlife to avoid damaging them, to move to their next living life, to advance further.

This level is for those who are "Dead", and therefore, they cannot advance too much further since that they are 'dead'. Dead is here defined by the existence in the afterlife without a fully finished soul or advanced soul [what texts refer to as the "Risen Body or Risen Serpent, Second Birth"], being in a fully developed state.

In this state, as I have stated before based on previous experiences, the soul cannot "hold" enough due to energetic reasons. It needs a rather quick incarnation, or can stay in places where there is a form of external sustenance.

Souls that have reached the more developed states, do not experience the so called "Afterlife" in the same way of the "Hell" that HPS Maxine has described, which is essentially a waiting room for the striking majority of souls that haven't tried too much to advance, or couldn't. If we were to make a parallel here, this level would correspond to the base chakra.

The general population and the people who have not advanced too much, have to go into this place, for the reasons of their health of their mind. If one for example, has not been practicing anything spiritual in their lifetime, therefore, they cannot be confronted past their lifetime with this input as it can make them feel very confused or even fearful.

Generally however, nobody can advance too much in the state that we refer to as "Dead", and therefore, one has to reincarnate again. Due to lack of sustaining energy, one needs quickly or immediately a body, so that they can restart again to be connected to their life generative source.

The stay into "Hell" that HPS Maxine has described is for souls that are not very advanced, and they are also taken very good care of. They will be protected, are certainly immune from any form of damage, and are escorted there safely until their next life.

However, because of natural dynamics that deal with their safety and sustenance, and this temporary state of life in the "thereafter" isn't exactly too expansive. This is also why HPS Maxine has described that people in this state do all sorts of human things, like "smoking" or "drinking", or "sitting in a bar". These levels of the astral realm have to do a lot with comfortable places that have been created for human beings with an average consciousness.

In contrast to the death of an average person that simply stays in the middle of nowhere, just waiting idly for the blind laws of reincarnation to take place, the above is of extreme importance that one will understand if they have an understanding of necromancy and how the death of regular people [Non-SS] occurs.

The Gods however, extend the protection that an SS brings in the afterlife into their family. The reason for this is rather mystical and I would rather not expand too much on here since this is a subject of another time and might derail this post. Anyone who has had a family person that was loved die, they know the Gods can listen to our plea to help them, and that they will definitely help them.

In the higher levels of what is called "Hell", the more advanced souls can have a more fruitful level of staying until they can reincarnate again. You will enjoy your stay a lot there. You can learn, you can even advance in some ways, and in other ways, you can receive mending for previous soul wounds or other problems.

While unless one is very advanced, they will not be able to meditate, they will be able to get experiences and understanding from the Gods before they get back. However, to reach this, one has to be considerably advanced and there is a lot of layers between "advanced, very advanced, one step before the Godhead" type of levels. Serious diligence is required. Otherwise the soul cannot have the power to be taken there.

In the top levels of advancement [which will be apparent in one's life too], one will reach higher levels into what we refer to as "Hell", and might even be pulled to temporarily reside to the planet of the Gods. There are also other extended benefits all of which have to do with being truly advanced. While this is not just for everybody, way before this level, there are also other benefits.

If you are clean and advanced to an extent above the regular human, all the qualities and powers you have created will be carried on with you. We know this already. In other words, all the things that make people suffer through reincarnations, will affect you less. You will have a more enjoyable lifetime [despite of what happens on the exterior].

Additionally, you will be able, before you reincarnate, to see a broad definition of the lifetime you are about to embark into, so that you can choose. The power of choice is for rather advanced souls, but it is there. You are able to choose to reincarnate or to not reincarnate, and since the body of the soul is powerful, you will have that choice to remain outside of your body for extended periods of time.

Among other things, one will also not be limited so much after death as a regular soul. You will be able to go wherever you want and one has other powers. Eventually however, even those who are in this level, will again have to reincarnate, in order to embark into serious tasks or have to work towards finishing the Magnum Opus.

Lastly, the Gods are really helpful, supportive and protective in all this, because anyone who tries to advance spiritually is valued by them as their creation.

Understanding the above, embark in existence with less worry. Regardless if we understand much or not, I can say with certainty after all the experiences, "travels" and knowledge I have received, that the goodness of the Gods is the most beautiful thing in existence to partake on.

Finally, as Thoth has also stated, "Live your Life, and you will never die". This statement is important to remember, in that you must also remember, that meditation is an art for bettering yourself, your life, your existence, and is an investment onto your soul, that belongs to you forever. Meditation should be part of one's life.

Meditation helps you in the here and now, but also assists in the "Thereafter". It helps you physically, mentally and spiritually, as a medicine for all ills. Through this work of the Gods and their instruction, we are never lost: We find the straight path to walk upon and get in touch with what makes the Gods into Gods, which is eternity.
