

Capitalism

The ethos of Capitalism is that money makes labor valuable and it gives value only. Capitalism ethos is built on several pillars of its power, that of usury, undercutting wages, and monopoly. These come together and create a plutocracy, which sets up an artificial system that allows for the rule of thieves. Another problem is that capitalism is a liberal version of economics that does not factor a nation, community, nature, or anything but the individual and their quest for profits. This mentality creates problems in society. It is an incorrect economic moral system.

A society governed by capitalism is run by private banks, which are private money corporations run by private individuals who take over the state and turn themselves into "State sponsored usury". This forces the population into a usury system in which they have to purchase their own money from private capitalists who charge major amounts of money on that debt with interest. This creates economic instability and causes the economy to shrink and stagnate. The cost of living skyrockets. The government starts to create taxes and raise taxes in an attempt to pay off the fees the private bank sets for repayment back to the private banks for printing pieces of paper and selling it you at interest. The private banking system by nature has to make a profit, and the mechanics of this will never allow, even with lower interest rates, for an open economic system. It is always a closed one that grows slowly then stagnates. This ends up garnishing the fruits of the entire nation's labor into the pocket of a handful of private individuals. It is theft of the value of the labor of a nation. It causes total collapse.

The undercutting of wages destroys the growth of the economy by not allowing for a steady flow of investment spending from the working classes into goods and services into the economy. This causes the economy, which is depended on the generation and consumption of needed goods and services, to collapse. The workers don't have the fruits of their labor returned to them so they can spend it to create the fuel of the engine of the economy because the owners are stealing the fruits of their labor and putting it into their individual pockets. This brings about total collapse.

The private banking system is a monopoly. The creation of criminal game strategies to create total monopolies includes artificial scarcity that allows for price fixing, such as passing laws that farmers have to destroy excess food so the six major food corporations can raise the prices on food to make more money. If the extra amount was allowed into the market, it would lower costs for people and the profit would be lower. This also includes the creation of the FDA by private capitalists to create a corporate lobby under government cloak to then push out any individuals who have working cures and cost-effective cures for diseases that could be affordable to the entire public. This is done to maintain a monopoly on the private medical industry they have created and to keep the cost of treatment and thus profits high. There is no money in a cure. This is why Bayer was caught selling HIV-infected blood to 2nd and 3rd world nations. They gamed the system from within the government to do this. They wanted to make a profit, as they stated. However they were creating a bigger marketplace by infecting people who would then need their drugs.

Monopoly was the destruction of the electric car, the destruction of Nikola Tesla and his company so the capitalists could build a global monopoly on energy. The capitalists have taken over and own the government and use it to build and protect their monopolies. This includes creating higher taxation so the money of the population, billions of dollars worth, can be taken and given to their corporations to and shareholders to make billions off of corporate welfare, and to pass laws protecting their monopolies. This allows them to rob the fruits of a nation's labor. This monopoly stagnates the health of the economic and social progress of a nation and causes total collapse. Monopoly only survives by holding back new technology and creative individuals by deplatforming them. This causes stagnation of the economy and makes life miserable for millions of good people, causing them to starve or die of diseases that could have been cured decades ago. It drives down the standard of living, destroys the environment and public morale. Tesla would have saved the world if he was not deplatformed to die homeless. They destroyed his platform socially and his company that ensured the numerous inventions he created never reached the public. The government stole his papers and many are still classified to this day.

Coupled into this, the constant psychological warfare operation against the population by the corporate media has destroyed healthy social values and moral ideals to create a neurotic consumer. This new moral system of dog eat dog social Darwinistic mentality has destroyed social unity and the traditional and normal morals of people, a society that needs to exist.

This has created an artificial social order in which a person's value, the value of human life, is by definition their individual value to the marketplace at the given time. This allows for a power structure in which social status and social power is determined only by how much money one has. Not by their moral values, their natural merits, to govern their creative genius and their altruism. That does not survive in a system that only rewards with everything from a better life to positive social regard and self esteem.....Nothing but money and getting money. This ensures that the very criminal mentality that games the system is reborn and enforced into the minds of every generation, as they dominate social morality. We can't survive this.

So what is a solution? There needs to be a new economic moral system that is based on what an economy really is, which is the People and their national life. The economy has to serve the People and provide the creation of new goods and services the People need, which develops their society into a better standard of living for the People as a community. This means that money is a medium of exchange only for goods and services, hence labor is the value of a society. It is labor that makes money have value. If nothing was built and no skills were there, what good is money? You can't plant money in the earth to make food grow.

This means that there has to be a national bank that issues debt-free, fiat currency that is regulated to maintain a constant supply of economic development with simple controls to prevent inflation. This is the point of fiat currency. This means the abolishment of the stock market, which is a criminal game institution that is driving economic collapse. By allowing individuals to take zero-interest loans to build their business, this bypasses the need for private investors and thus stocks. This gives individuals the freedom to try because if they fail, but their spending records show it all went to a business, they are forgiven of their debt. We don't want to make people afraid to build the economy with individual merit.

We must pass a law stating that employers have to pay high wages to their employees, which can be determined by several practical factors. This returns the fruits of the value of the labor back to the workers and allows for the standard of living to go upward and the economy to prosper.

By not allowing private individuals to create monopolies, this allows for new technologies and business to be created that can be improved upon by others in time, as ideas always are. This results in evolution of society and improvement of living standards. The government can create a platform for new business ideas and individuals with creative ideas where they can be funded and have infrastructure built around them to help get these services into society as fast as possible. This also includes held back technology, particular in medicine, which will save lives and save our planet. This allows for the prices of living to go drastically down and the standard to go up. It includes the abolishment of most taxes and the creation of small flat tax that goes into public infrastructure. This includes public health care, which will be cheap with new medical technology and other tech that has been held back, and with passing laws to protect public health by cleaning up the air, food, and products. People will not be nearly as sick as they are now due to the toxicity of bad living. The public education system is a monopoly of the private capitalist sector to create a dumbed-down prole who never questions anything. This has to be thrown out and a new public education system must be created that teaches people a moral spiritual system of life in service to society based on goodness, altruism, and love for their People and their community. School must bring out each individual's genius and give each individual the resources needed to actualize this genius into society. This creates a holistic spiritual meritocracy.

This includes a new public moral system in which service to society and the People is rewarded. The goal of the economy is to reward one for helping your community. This needs to be part of spiritual and thus moral development of society into a whole new culture, which gives us a utopian world.

It is by our spiritual, moral, and physical labor that we add value to our souls, our being, our People, and our world. This was the knowledge given to us already by the National Socialist ideals. National Socialism is the only way out, the way of Truth past the lie of Communism and Capitalism.
