

About Russia/Ukraine War and Certain Events - 02/22/2022

HP Hooded Cobra 666
February 22, 2022

Everyone is probably reading the news in regards to Russia, Ukraine and so on. The situation is borderline tragic. I didn't want to be right when I said 02/22/2022 would be a cursed enemy date [this was pre-planned of course, we know the enemy very well]. But it is.

Apparently, this is the date where Russia officially attempted an invasion and gave invading order for Ukraine, based on whatever pretext they made up. Don't tell me you aren't seeing the Jewish Kabbalistic date here...We know better...

For those who have read history, these events repeat again and again.

The trigger of this, is a Jewish president of Ukraine, which is a full-on actual jew. One will get here vibes from World War 1. The instigation of these wars is nothing new in history. Just look at the past: endless upset and wars have been created by the enemy again and again.

Falsely, people do assume that "peace" is better than these events at this point. But we aren't really living as a world at "peace" yet. Do the last two years remind anyone of a "peaceful" world? We have already entered into a cycle of war with the enemy and those that try to enforce the enemy paradigm. It's just getting more obvious now than ever before.

The ugly factual truth is that much of this is "etched" into the fabric of this world due to enemy Rituals, planning, and of course, putting jews in key positions of power.

The people allow this by denying the facts about this people, same as they deny all the facts about anything else. Cobra is this or that [maybe they will spend a diatribe whatever on the JoS being "evil", we know the drill], but they don't want to see the meaning of it all.

Has the JoS not told you about this date? Yes. Has the JoS not told you why it happens? Yes. Have we told you how it's going to be over with? Yes. Have the Gods not provided the means to halt this for years? Yes.

Can this be done? Yes. What about the past however, aren't all the energies, events, and the current manifestations, right on track for the enemy? Yes. Are they not all in positions of power, with which they can terrorize humanity and cause these problems over and over again? Yes.

Even through all of these attacks, which we knew would come, it's actually a great thing to know that many people are increasingly becoming more and more aware of this "parody" that they call "normal life".

They are also becoming increasingly aware of the enemy as the cause of mass decay that leads events to this situation.

The above is actually the most important thing, because that's the only way humanity will stand ever a chance. Stopping this war or the Co-Vid situation or whatever, these are all symptoms of a greater disease. If the core is not healed, then we can spend our existence trying to treat symptoms. That's not how good doctors should behave.

Haven't the people been duped once again about the "Corona" situation, which then led to energy crisis and financial crisis? Yes. Have we written about how this was going to collapse a large part of the economy? Yes. Does it make any sense our "Democracies" almost fell apart because of a coughing virus? No. Do many still reject to care? Yes.

Needless to say, bailing out humanity from all this is something the Gods have to do over and over again. The reality is however that this cannot continue indefinitely. Certain events are etched in the astrological fabric of this world. They are consequences of natural laws, and they cannot be violated or changed.

They can be delayed, blunted, reduced, but they cannot change.

Our RTRs do blunt the blows, and they will, after considerable time has passed [the New Rituals will also contribute here] to lessen all these blows. Eventually it will be so much better. But the permanent cure will only arrive when the people really understand what is going on and decide to learn. Until this point, the cycle of bad things will continue.

We can only mitigate damage. And that is the reality. I do not want to tell people lies here. I always said the Truth and that's why some people might hate this. People want to be told stupid shit that all of this will go away or something, but it will not. They will disagree or go angry when they are told, but that's that.

That's fine, they too, can earn a lot more from facts and Truth than they can earn from lies. What have lies earned us in the last 3 years? We are at the brink of some "Out of nowhere", bullshit large-scale war.

We cannot close this circle of errors as a world, yet. Satan is explicit and explains that the time of Destruction and Creation is going on, and yes, it will go for a long time. It won't stop yet.

Most people want to delude themselves that they can close it permanently or fully, but the reality is, this takes fundamental change. Most people do not want to change themselves even one inch from where they are.

People wanted the enemy, which is a known alien species, to run their judicial, financial, political, spiritual systems. Tell me reasonably, how can we avoid these things if people still accept this on an overwhelming level? We cannot.

Another thing, is that you can rise above these situations as an individual and as a spirit and mind. Yes, you can. The Gods have designed it all this way. This involves the individual. But the mass, is going to be condemned to slavery with the current state of affairs ongoing globally.

If we keep accepting these collectively, as with many for example, who will see the RTR and not do it because they are afraid of semantics or whatever, then we will incur bad results as expected.

If Klaus goes literally in humanity's face and tells them that they want to chip them to rob them of all free will, or Billy Gates tells them they will never own anything while he owns most farmland in the world, or if all freedoms do get sold out over the mere delusion of a flu, then humanity will definitely experience a fall and degeneration.

That is unavoidable. Unless it is avoided...

Satan has you all covered here, however. The Gods, when they made our species, they acted in great wisdom. The "masses" can literally go burn themselves, but the individual fate of a person can be largely decided by the individual.

There are also very strong reasons, why the Dedication Ritual and the practices exist. The Gods give these as these are really the primary help and medicine, not nonsense "solutions" such as those claimed of the enemy.

One's soul will be with the Gods. Yes, you will continue. Nor Klaus nor nobody can stop this, in this world or in any other. Yet, this vermin and its works can delay the process of the world.

Humanity is harassed to no end.

To go one step further, much of the things they do, they falsely do it in the hopes that this will sink humanity...But maybe the outcome will not be what they have planned and expected. The enemy is not on the level of understanding what this means or what this is. They are not entitled to this understanding.

The world can become a literal war zone, but the pious person will be able to defend themselves and be saved, materially as well as spiritually. In regards to the rest, they get punished because of this ignorance.

We can and we do Rituals to help. There will be a new schedule coming up. As I have explained before, Azazel/Apollo, is the patron of wisdom and understanding. Certain affairs cannot be stopped, they can only be mitigated, or lessened.

If large rock from a mountain starts to drop on you, and you see it's cracking and that it will land on you, you don't sit there like a stupid person to literally try to grab it. That will fail. It is a waste of one's life and energy. But if one runs away, and grabs the children nearby, then the fall will be mitigated. The mountain however, was poised to fall.

And the ignorance of those who didn't see it, was poised to create a disaster. And that is unavoidable, and definitely NOT avoidable by you sitting there and trying to lift the boulder. Therefore, schedules and future Rituals will be built on wisdom and long-term planning.

We are going to see a hundred wars more if the enemy is not dealt with. Just some time ago, people kept seeing war after war, after war, with this being a never-ending scenario. Now, we are seeing hoax, after hoax, after hoax. These represent not less than wars.

In fact, most of the "Co-Vid" measures of freedom restraints, psychological abuse, enforcing police states all of these, were as bad as a literal war. We already lived through a "War" in the Co-Vid, and now they are concocting ANOTHER thing on top of this. The only thing that one would argue wasn't like a war, is the bombings and so on...

Nowadays, people died differently. But many died and more will die. And why does this occur? Because people really didn't learn anything. They still want to behave in an unfitting manner.

One paradigm here is, how they simply watch and do nothing as all their rights are taken away. Well, that's not how freedom works or how it is.

A free people is far less likely to wage wars, too.

We could be spending 100% of our time solely after ourselves, but that is not what the True spiritual souls would do. I have no doubt the striking majority if not everyone here, has been with the Gods before. We are here on a form of duty. Yes, life can impede and make one forget and whatnot, but this remains a reality beyond time.

The reason the Ancient People were obsessed with "Religion", or rather, our Gods, was because this is what developed human beings. They had therefore established a greater harmony between destruction and creation.

Even wars of the past, were of a different fashion. WW1 was the cruelest war the world has ever seen. Wars in the Ancient style were fought in open fields, and so on. They weren't fought in people's households as many believe. At the peak of spiritual development, wars were fought between Commanders and selected armies, outside of cities.

Even annexations and takeovers, didn't happen on the backs of regular citizens. Now, the enemy's "Wars" are honourless. They revolve around hoaxes, frauds, scarce damnation that eats away life slowly. The level of humans back then, even in war matters, was not as it is today.

As a closing note, there are strong reasons why the Cleaning and Protection meditations are like some of the most important meditations here. They work wonders, and they can provide an immense protection.

As with anything, they have to be adhered to, in order to be mastered. The average person out there is like they are walking inside Mordor without any armor. Meanwhile, you have armors, psychic weaponry, the mind, the knowledge provided here to navigate life way better than the average person. Have faith in this and have strong faith in the Gods, even if you might doubt your own self.

Within a few days there will be not only an RTR Schedule [everyone should do the Final RTR regardless, to make sure all of this collapses on the enemy again]. The FRTR is now crucial as it has ever been.

We need as a world, help from the Gods. We need to also return to them to avoid more of this calamity, and to be able to grow in a better way. That is why this whole thing here, the schedules, and everything else is happening.

That's the reason, the goal, the purpose and the aim.

It happens for us all here as individuals, but it also happens for the world to be steered to a better direction. There are better directions. We are all partakers and holding pushing this wheel together.

Stay resolute and don't exist in fear.

-High Priest Hooded Cobra 666