

For Those Who Really Want Diversity: Here's How

Diversity, as a meaningful approach towards the palette of life, has to do with the fact that human beings are different. This involves culture, form, beliefs, geographic location on earth, food, music - endless things that make us different.

These things that make us different, make us diversified. While at the very root, human beings seem to share a great amount of the same characteristics, such as that we all eat, or all breathe, etc. There are many things that make us strongly related but also very different at the same time.

While emphasis has been constantly put on what makes us all similar, which is a normal thing to look for, we have been told it's abnormal to look on what makes us different. The reality is that both observations are totally normal and also necessary for the development of human life.

Life is a very interesting phenomenon, and while our planet is rife with life, not everything is living, but we can definitely say the planet is very filled with life. We have not learned to appreciate life as a species, nor are we very aware of how to deal with it.

One of the reasons why the Gods help by instruction, is to help us understand. After trying to live my lifetime to stay close to them to listen, I understand that they teach us to advance, but also to avoid the worst.

This "worst" should be easily understood if we were more spiritually aware, but we are closely none at all as a general earthen species.

When we meditate and advance, you will notice that you understand certain things that were totally obvious all along, but that they become clear to you. Very normal things will become conscious to you, such as for example, the need to not pollute your own environment.

As simple as this might sound, when the spiritual level of a species is too low, none of this will make sense. But even animals because they are on a higher level of mind, oftentimes do take these rules seriously on an unconscious level. Humans do not do this always and can deviate too far from proper understanding.

Unfortunately, human beings first need to extinct too many other species, and then only understand the value of how precious it was when they all existed. We first burn a forest and then ask questions later. We learn through death and mistakes, all of which could be avoided by broader awareness.

The reason this diversification of human beings has happened in the first place, and why locales, cultures, languages and many other things differentiated themselves to cause differences between us, are all in the desire of the natural laws of the universe.

Currently, many people who believe they are standing for this "Diversity", are actually working to besiege and ruin this diversity of the many different people of the planet.

It is very ironic, that the "method" through which many claim that they will "promote diversity", is actually what will end all diversity on earth: and that falsehood is called Miscegenation or "Mixing" between Races, which is promoted constantly in the media for decades now.

Father Satan and the Gods do have many different beings under them, which I would be deviating from the point of this post to state how many different beings there are. These not only include beings in a form of race, but they also include beings composed of other incorporeal essence, such as living in other dimensions and levels of life. Too many.

It took a while for me to comprehend the obvious when I was new into SS, and to understand that these seemingly two opposing approaches, i.e., racial preservation, and accepting and protecting the diversity of life, are actually two values that must work hand in hand for the preservation of life and its promotion into the future.

These same entities that are so supremely advanced, have shared with us a way so that we can all maintain and keep maintaining our real diversity on this planet, and to not violate it, and learn to respect the rules, while behaving like conscious beings rather than animals.

Why they did this was simple, it was so that we keep existing while we have reasonable forms which remain diversified.

The real method to do this is racial preservation for human beings. That is what any loving gardener would say about a garden of different flowers, yet many people call this "Racist" and other terminology, without sitting here to think. Previous generations who were not brutally programmed, understood all of this by default.

We do not as we are besieged by nefarious messages that serve specific "agendas" at this point. Certainly these agendas do not have to do with the well-being of humanity if anyone hasn't noticed that yet...

The above preservation is also coupled with evolution and people being allowed to create. Even if all Europeans in their own continent or all Africans around their continent might be "outwardly similar", belonging to a similar root, we see that as people separate even slightly, differentiation begins to be created.

In many cases, these differentiations can maintain a similar outwardly form, but we can start seeing bigger differences or discrepancies between the people having similar forms as time goes and circumstances change, such as the creation of different other cultures or the passing of centuries.

But the "Form" or the Race, shows the general context of a people and remains solid, with developments being created from a same central "seed".

In the old times, before we called this as "Race", people were called "Peoples". The Egyptians, the Caanites, and so on. Behind this very statement there was a strong implication of race as a considered default, with the median average of similarity between these people as decided by the most of them, being considered their "race".

What I refer to as "Median Average" is simply this: This is how you can look at someone and say- You look like a Mexican, or Slavic, or Hindu, or a Chinese human being. This is because a median average has been formed that represents the striking amount of people in a territory.

The sharper the understanding, the more one can then further divide things and categorize them, and they can also understand broader categorizations that take place.

I will also mention here, that while the 3 core races were created by the Gods directly, there are also native tribes on this earth with humanoids that were not created by them and seem to me to have existed as human indigenous populations.

These populations did not have spiritual knowledge, and did not do anything like the Gods would have the rest of people doing. However, these races of beings are very very small in number on the face of the earth. I will mention more about this in an upcoming topic.

These for the most part have been completely away from any form of civilization, and have never been touched or harmed by anyone in many cases. If they come in contact with "Civilizers", they might choose to not civilize or not want to civilize whatsoever, living completely disconnected.

For the rest of us who know of the ancient cultural history, we know through our cultures were intensely focused and were centered around the idea of spiritual importance and significance of the Heavenly Constellations, etc, that has been an instruction put in our cultures by "Those who from heaven to Earth came", namely the Gods or in Sumeria the "Anunaki".

Currently, there are many and endless of these differences on earth added to the above. But as we go, those who are the true enemies of diversity do preach about something contradictory: That if everything is "mixed", somehow, the "offspring" will be "diversified", something which seems to be wholly unreal.

As the process continues for generations between a populace, there is a median average level that forms where all the characteristics of a race settle down, with minor differences here and there. This median average becomes something "new", and is definitely not as diversified as it could be in the case of the melting pot theory.

Going further and further in time, all human beings will resoundingly be almost entirely identical. In fact, the reason we have different races is because this is how "races" and "people from a place" are formed. Certain characteristics are exchanged and the normative level after centuries is reached where they all form a specific form that is representing them.

To put this very simply, if you pour 100 different juices in a pot, and then you keep mixing and mixing everything, and you mix all fruits, the final outcome of this will be something like the median average of all of this combined.

What is even worse, is that by the end of this process, it will be really hard to discern anymore any of the 100 different fruit or vegetable juices you have put in the mixture.

So at the price of 100 different juices, and maybe mixing a few to make some other more interesting or less interesting ones, there will be a sacrifice of all the juices permanently.

In the case of juice, we can always hopefully retain seeds to fruits and go back to the fruits, but in the case of mankind, we cannot just plant humans that go extinct through this process to reverse it all back again. Then, all of this real diversity is lost, while we keep ending up with literally no diversity whatsoever by the product of this repeated process.

If done on a global scale, this will clearly annihilate all the handiwork of both human effort and the efforts of the universe itself, but also the genetic engineering feats of the Gods who are represented in the work that we refer to as Humans today.

Falsely, we are also told that mixed people should be "proponents" of this "melting pot" process, but the end result will clearly not represent any of the current inhabitants of this earth, and not any "mixed" or "less mixed" people of today.

The final creation those who promote this have in mind, will not represent a human as we know it today at all, except of maybe having two legs and two hands and one head.

Granted the project behind this nefarious extinction of human differences is promoted by the enemy, the end result of this will clearly be altered by other practices such as DNA manipulation, which will likely slowly but surely erode all genetic code on earth or make it essentially into one final clump.

As a natural person who always stood in great interest and saw with great care all the beautiful differences in this world, years ago, as this did not make any sense to me or why it would happen, I had to ask in regards to why this so utterly wrong case of affairs is taking place.

In regards to the reason "why" this would have to occur, I was told by Satan that "It happens to create ease of mass manipulation on the genetic level", implying that this makes genetic engineering and other things easier for the lunatics in power who harbor these visions.

This nefarious plan has a long term exposure to literally "terraform" what we know humanity as today. The final "Hybrid" will not have any spiritual faculty or likely even any interest such as this, and will represent a "unirace".

Everyone that lives on this earth right now must know that the end result of this process will represent nobody else that lives in it, but rather, the "final outcome" will rather represent something like the greys, who are a uniform race without any defining characteristics.

Little do these people know that believe in any of this, even those in power, that these ideas are actually the long term plan of hostile entities like the greys.

From the perspective of a form that comes to annex humans for slavery, the existence of so many different beings of so many varieties, is troublesome. It would rather have only ONE thing to deal with, for easier management.

Another more worrisome thing is, that the above is literally how a genetic engineer with a poor taste would create a slave race of uniform entities where nothing is different between any of them.

Going further, to enslave this ONE thing would not be as hard as to have to tailor make solutions for, let's say, 150 different types of people on a planet.

Additionally, returning back to the example of the juice, how the process is made and what analogy will be dropped into what, is clearly planned by the enemy to be based on the procreation and mixture based on adding the bad juice as a basis for the mixing of everything else.

The mojo will not come out well after this.

If anyone knows about alien shows like Star Trek and the Army of the Clones, one can see the relative scenes and imagine the outcome.

In the movement of life going outwards, through so many decisions of our ancestors, others more thought about and others less thought about, we are all here and we find ourselves in a giant river of life that will likely continue flowing outwards.

The enemy preaches the dissolution of cultures, states, borders, but also, the complete and utter annihilation of any notion in regards to "Race", "Culture", "Ethnicity" and other similar words whom the confused people and evil sabotegers of humanity are trying to relate as "evil notions".

These are notions of goodness, not of evil. These bring interest and plurality in life.

The mere conversation about "Race" has been branded as evil, but it was merely an outlook of discovery and classification of other human beings.

Retaining diversity alive and procuring a humanity that has vibrant differences, is only achievable through self respect, respect of others, recognizing the differences, developing what is already existing into more refined forms and so on.

Race, ancestry, heritage, and progeny, are part of this. This process towards the sought "diversity" which many people are after, is actually through the values they have been taught to dislike based on false pretext.

It is very true to say that only those who recognize culture, race, heritage and origins of beings are the true supporters of diversity, no matter from where we come from.

And that one is a liar and a hypocrite when they claim they support "diversity", while spreading the virus of collapse for all that is different in the handiwork of life, through the preaching the full and forced "uniformity" of all people into "one people".

We must accept the eternity of life and not the dullness that is the preaching of the enemy. We are not "one", we are "many" and that is fine. We are not borgs, we are human beings and we have differences. And that is fine too, because this is the path of the developing beauty of life.
