Did Hitler Really Lose... Let's find out.

I clear out this is not a diss to Varg as I consider him something like a first and very necessary "cousin" to our work and ideology. We are materializing the same objective from different levels. Way, way different levels. The closeness to truth varies for obvious reasons of where we do this work from and where it goes towards.

I can also see that Varg likes Hitler in his heart. But he cannot express himself due to constraints. In which case the points below are to be taken with a grain of salt.

If you pay close attention to the arguments presented by Varg or other "Fascists" or "Judges" of Hitler, they are all ironic. Varg makes his arguments about evil civilization from one of the most civilized countries of the planet, which has a far and vast arsenal of nuclear capability, which is France. He can be in France because uhm, the evil European Union can help citizens to move freely in Europe. And you can reside elsewhere by law.

Financially, France, the infestation aside, is also a very strong country, and plus, if you have material needs in France you can cover them. In France, you can ironically work your plans of becoming an independent Tribalist, but try this in Serbia with 280eu monthly Salary, and you will see what "Tribalism" really means in reality. Ironically, to become a Tribalist, is only possible in countries which have truly some form of healthy shekel situation going, thanks to successful civilization. The same thing goes for financial freedoms which also exist in France.

When you have a baby, you can go to a shiny hospital and have your baby be born, blessed be both the hospitals and the babies (I wish the best truly for all Europeans who have babies, obviously, and may they have more). What you also can do is cash money from giants like Amazon which are in the US which you belittle and attack everyday as part of 'organized civilization'. You can also get your mails and books from the accursed civilization's internet. You can sleep at night at ease knowing one of the world's best military is protecting you, and even if they are scumbags to personal freedoms, you live your life at least knowing you will not be ransacked by random tribes or pirates in the region anymore.

How did Varg become famous? He became famous by Satanism essentially, and Satan. Despite the penalties of the early part of his life, which came from association with commies and losers like Euronymous (which resulted in lifelong fame for him and him becoming a metal legend regardless), he became famous through tools like the internet. Which are in all respects, a construct of civilization, basically, constructs that go well beyond civilization. I don't doubt the Gods used their hand on Varg and blessed him, to promote messages and turn people to Paganism, which is in all respects, way better than the jewish filth.

Essentially, if you deduct all of the above and cleanse them through logic, you will see something important. That it's not civilization that is the problem. But two factors. One factor is the jew in civilization, and another factor is the perversion and stealing, and manipulation that happens from the jews. These boil down to one fact, lack of understanding, which is lack of spirituality. If these issues are fixed, the issues civilization causes will be eliminated. Maybe not fully, but upwards to a 98%, this can be for sure, yet we have to build to that level it doesn't come on its own.

Another fault of Varg is that he scorns people of the past. You cannot really blame people for losing a war, and you cannot blame them and be fully correct about it since you were not there to see the situations, and attacking people like Hitler is a joke. This is literally an ant criticizing a lion, especially when said character's intentions to save our people were cleared out through 'history' even as of late. You have no excuses to be misinformed in this case, for example. You simply do not have a right to 'criticize' men like Hitler and pretend you do this on an equal footing.

Criticism that is valuable is supposed to happen when you know what you are talking about in an in depth sense. If you don't understand a concept, then you can say you're doing scorning and flaming more than actual judgement. There are arguments from Tribalists that "Hitler shouted too much on his speeches" and that this scares them or something, or that "Hitler was too forceful with his policies". Since when the "Wild Tribalists and Undomesticated Beastly Powerful Savage Men" get scared or argue of these things, lol? Where is the "Wilderness" that is claimed by these people? Where is the understanding of Nature's laws?

I suppose the leader of a war torn country that fought the worst war of mankind as a soldier, plus civil war, has to be a calm butterfly like Justin Trudeau. And in the face of planned extinction of his people, he has to be the smoothest and most peaceful man alive. He indeed has to be like Rabbi Jesus, soft spoken, and loving to his enemies, lest his enemies judge him wrongly. Germany was cornered and its fate decided long before Hitler came to power.

Hitler coming to power averted this programmed fate. The plans for Germany's extinction were on the table before Hitler's birth. So if the wolf fights and saves his children from this, is that a failed wolf, or is it a successful wolf? As far as it can be seen, Germany still exists and is one of the strongest countries of the planet. Infestation aside, it exists. The plan of the enemy was averted.

The weakness of mind of such people is evident. Imagine if someone whined that Alexander the Great shouted too much on his conquests - how retarded are these arguments? If people conspire to kill you and you fight them and you lose a finger or get scarred but at least you live, I guess we have to blame YOU for losing a finger or a hand, instead of losing your existence. So "Unvikingly" of an argument these people pose. It really makes you think... Why is this the case?

In the same way we can claim that the Vikings or any other group of mighty people were retarded losers since they are not going around in boats anymore. Indeed, if one acts like a kike, and uses these jewish arguments, they can blame everyone for everything. This comes from a desire to make people seem that way and it does not reflect the reality of their worth. It is a sided argument to vilify these people. Same as the jews do with great civilizations that have persisted for tens of thousands of years.

Jews don't attack us now because Hitler's war was 'lost'. You do not attack a target you have won against. You attack someone with whom you have not settled accounts and where there has been no victor decided. They attack us now because they didn't win. This should be obvious.

Communism was also defeated. Project paperclip transferred a lot of German scientists to America, which was the reason Communism was defeated in the next decades. Yes, the same Communism that planned European Continent Full takeover in 1939 and was averted by the "Losers".

Of course, these judges of greater people understand only the basic laws of nature, such as win or lose. They do not divide events how a true Pagan philosopher or observer would do, which would be through logical analysis. Fancy terms about Paganism are always used by Pagans but they seldom ever apply Paganism in its true form in all sorts of ways. They just nullify all arguments based on outcomes. Varg and all these types can use all of the aforesaid means and also exist because some people decided to carry a big sacrifice of themselves almost a century ago.

Ants cannot judge lions in a valuable way. If someone thinks they are important in this world because they have a lot of subscribers or because they can play a guitar (with a lot of talent), then I digress. In the case Varg takes this stance because he is persecuted, then the Gods know about his heart, and he is fully excused. Varg is also practicing reverse advertising by attacking Hitler and in many cases belittling his work. It's also not working if that is the intention of such. It works only in reverse.

The harsh judgement of Hitler comes not only from lack of knowledge, perspective, but also spiritual understanding. They just cannot understand this man because they are not similarly advanced. They reject all the factors which really contributed to this event such as the war on the higher levels. And the higher objectives.

What I know for a fact, is that we are here, we exist, we have enough freedom to act. Europe exists. Whites exist. The West and the freedoms given to all mankind such as information, speech, and religious freedom is still here. There are still ways to communicate. There are still ways to exist and advance if you're willing to. The sacrifice of Hitler and the people were not in vain. It manifested. And we carry this objective on the next level. Not just of Hitler but all freedom fighters against the enemies of mankind. Hitler indeed won.

Varg talks about "Reincarnation" all the time, and yadda yadda, trivial crap about how you "Reincarnate", but judges Hitler as a mortal shell who "lost a war in 1945" and whose "Loss resulted in the problems of civilization". Look at the irony here... All "people against civilization" just point on the few bad things about civilization, while disregarding the positive things, which after all, they lavish in. Therefore it's comfortable to double talk and end the argument here, on a "Hitler that lost in 1945" only taking the losses at heart to justify his objective.

Judging Hitler on this temporary virtual 'loss' is like judging Casanova for losing one girlfriend once upon a time, and got her next year. It's like judging Tesla harshly because he finished his lifetime without manifesting one of his wonderful machines. Hitler's next year is coming in and will manifest in the future as an ultimate victory.

From the point of fatalism and nihilism, and also mortal observation, they lost these cases. But when you see them as eternal souls then their work is not over. And this is the fundamental truth of Paganism, reincarnation and re-emergence.

If we take the lenses of observation higher, we will see how many great battles people like that have won. The win to loss ratio is 2-1 at the very least which is why we are here. If we have not won the majority of battles we wouldn't be here right now. And that the cycle of life consists of battles, victories and losses. But the final outcome of this earth has not even been decided, and is not even close to be decided.

Varg calls people who like Hitler "Losers" but he is essentially the only one focusing on the TEMPORARY loss and SELECTIVE OBSERVATION of Hitler as someone who 'lost'.

When Hitler and many other precious souls who have fought for thousands of years manifest blatantly, Varg and many others will be ashamed of their hypocrisy and harsh judgement.

"Those who want to live, let them fight, and those who do not want to fight in this world of eternal struggle do not deserve to live."-Adolf Hitler

The situation is Hitler was responding to invasions of his own nation. The Polish army had illegally occupied part of eastern Germany since the end of the first war, and had launched border wars against Germany in the near past for more land. Poland's military was larger than the entire British empires, and was modernized and well trained. They outnumbered the German armed forces greatly. This is why they attacked Germany. The Polish government made a deal with America and England to force Germany into a two front war so they could take more German land for themselves. Poland lost this gamble but they slaughtered tens of thousands of German women, children, and men at places like Broomberg to start this war.

Hitler then had to attack west because Germany had been invaded by the English and French armies who were attacking into the Rhine Land to push for Berlin. The German's then defeated both militaries and pushed the English to Dunkirk and France surrendered and put in the Vichy government.

Germany was going to be invaded from Soviet Poland, the Baltic, the border of East Prussia and the parts of Soviet occupied Romania in the summer of 1941, which is confirmed in the Soviet archives, by a Soviet army of thirty million troops with the best equipment and training and leadership. So Hitler and his allies had to strike first or be wiped out. That was that. Stalin had prepared for 15 years to conquer Europe, which was the second invasion of Europe by the Red Army the first was in 1921 on orders from Lenin, which had been defeated in Poland. But the plan was to take Germany for Communism by attacking through Poland. Whoever controls Germany controls Europe.

Hitler tried to make peace with England dozens of times, even when Germany had won the war against them in 1940. He tried to have peace with the Soviet Union as well. But they realized this was impossible.

Hitler fought a defensive war to protect first Germany itself and then later Europe from Communism. German's, French, Italians, Romanians, Hungarians, Belgians, Dutch, Fins, Norwegians, Swede's, English, Ukrainians Spanish, Latvians, Lithuanians and others, and even White Russian's all fought together to destroy the Soviet Union.

Did Hitler lose the war..... Yes and no. Politically Germany was defeated and occupied so yes. However, Hitler did destroy the Soviet Union and this caused the fall of the USSR later on. Hitler also forced a situation in which Stalin failed to take all of Europe. And after the war, America, now a militarized world power with the Atomic weapon, entered the cold war against a wasted Soviet Union that had nothing left and its military was destroyed. This saved the Free World. Hitler fought the battle of the Alamo of western civilization which allowed America to wake up to the Soviet threat once the war was over. In the end, Hitler succeeded in stopping the Zionist elites from taking over the planet with Communism, which was his ultimate goal.

Starting the war with Hitler in the end cost the Jews their entire USSR and world government.

The reason Hitler lost the war was that the Junkers betrayed Germany and refused to follow Hitler's orders which cost them Stalingrad as General Degrelle stated in his biography. And the Junker general staff from the Soviet archives the 11 top generals, three of them were Soviet agents. The Soviets knew all the German battle plans months in advance. If the Germans had won Stalingrad by following Hitler's orders, the Soviet Union would have collapsed in six weeks as all the fuel the Red Army needed would have fallen into Axis hands. Stalingrad was the key battle which is why Stalin ordered the not one step back order.

In the end, Hitler simply was forced to fight in a war which Jewry had declared on all of Europe in 1917 when they started the war of their Communism against all of Europe. Even if Hitler had not been born, Stalin would have still attacked all of Europe and it would have fallen totally to Communism.

The Jews were so enraged with their fellow tribes man, Stalin's failure, they actually assassinated him by poison; this was confirmed in the autopsy reports on Stalin.

Varg is simply an off the grid, anarchist. There is a big movement of people like that in America.

It would probably be better if people could just start off the grid organic farms with the money they lose at college instead and start off with that.
