

Will 6 Billion Solve the World Hunger Problem as Charities Said to Elon Musk?

A common line that is being repeated in the media, is that "all this money could be used to stop hunger", primarily aimed at rich people.

This nonsense, is brought one step further by Communists, especially strong now in the United States. Based on a victim and theft mentality, they instruct that if we "take everything from the rich", this is going to somehow solve all the problems.

The reality is that yes, if some rich were removed from their positions, especially those that are utterly parasitic to no return to society, then things might improve. Yet this would indeed solve nothing. In fact, if some other people were removed, we might return at fast speed in the stone age, because they are the very few people that have capabilities to do some things necessary for society.

The preaching goes if you steal another person's shirt this is going to solve poverty, but this mentality will only recreate more of the same poverty that this world suffers from, since we didn't instead focus on making two shirts, or at least another shirt for another person, but we focused on removing what one has and moving it to a person that knows nothing of making a shirt.

As a final result, one will always remain without a shirt. Since we have been following this logic of imbalance, there is no progress. These arguments are also the foundation of "Black Lives Matter". Christianity goes one step further and claims that nobody must have a shirt at all, making matters even worse. Communism gets us there, with people fighting over the same shirt and killing each other in a form of "Class Warfare".

The it's the "Rich's fault" is the same line many hardcore capitalists use, which is the "It's the poor people's fault". These two ideas are manipulated by jews to cause warfare between people and their imbalanced positioning destroys societies.

Even sensible Capitalism is better than Communism, as it tries to enforce the rich by make the shirt for the people, with the incentive of greed for the people who are already rich. So to people who say America must change, think of this and think what is best to do.

Hitler was a great man because he put the guys who knew how to make shirts, the shirtless, and told them "Co-operate now, and you get to make shirts for them too, and they help you make the shirts, and you can have as much as you want, but make sure everyone else also has something". Since it worked, jews tried to destroy Hitler.

Now, they try to destroy the United States and its inner balances by promoting Communism or disabling the ability of Capitalism to work in a manner that produces actual wealth for a society. The train of this Capitalism has been brought off the rails for decades now, to where many people question or can't agree upon what kind of system is really in place. I digress as I don't want to go off topic here.

Elon Musk, who is now the richest person on the planet, has been also hit with this line by another activist, who claims that if somehow he gave out 6 billion to people through these organizations, world hunger would end.

Let us contemplate for a moment here. The richest institution of this earth, probably richer than the United States of America, is actually the Roman Catholic Church. This "institution" was based on the nonsense claims that if you give your one dollar to them, this will somehow help every poor and destitute person in the world.

Clearly, these dollars never made it to anyone. Elon's Musk business is actually creating something in the planet, such as rocketry. Through his advances [he works closely with NASA] then maybe at some point we will have commercial space travel and expand into space. This might look like it's not the first and most important thing, but it's certainly a most important thing compared to the utter nothingness of the church.

I don't try to personally judge Musk here. We all know his bogus shit about microchipping the human brain. That's besides the focus of this post.

The trillions of the church have literally created nothing scientifically or otherwise. It was always a completely self-serving institution. It produced literally nothing at all of value for global civilization. The same goes for Islam.

At best, all they did with these tens of trillions that they have, is only buy themselves things, which is also opposed to all their bogus claims. If we sold out the Church, indeed, all this money [and to "whom" would we sell it to?], if properly funneled into society by the creation of schools, educational and scientific institutions, building libraries, or building places where people can work out and so on, and all the related, humanity would be helped considerably.

The Christian Church and all these bogus organizations just lie to humanity out of their teeth. The reality is what now I will relate to you. If you have read past posts shared here, this is something you already know.

Poverty or riches, and how this is managed, has a lot to do except of luck and being dealt a bad hand, with how one lives. Many people constantly condemn the rich and pretend that they are equal, but the reality says that they are not. Quite a few rich people, except those borne out of luck or other schemes, have a lot of more constructed inner qualities that make them rich.

They can be better money managers or labor managers, better businessmen, or all of this. This is many times also in the astrology chart. For those who know, you will understand why Elon Musk is actually in the position he is.

Like any other area of life, some people are born with an innate talent of this. Entrepreneurs and many others do indeed solve the world's problems. They are not to be called out of this, they are absolutely necessary. They take on themselves a necessary aspect of life which is the factor of risk and future dangers.

Jews have wrongfully raised into the highest status of wealth, and have created debauchery for the planet. Jews are an alien race that sits as a tick on the skin of humanity, and therefore when they siphon out the riches of Gentiles, they have no good aims to do with any of it.

This is exactly the opposition of what a rich person that wasn't like the jews would do or at least should be doing. This state is just an unhealthy state, plus, jews are literally bragging on people's faces and for them "riches" is just a totem situation where they have enslaved what is their enemies, the Gentiles. This has nothing to do with actual wealth of spirit or of even money.

In the Ancient Greece, the person who had considerable wealth was called, in contrast to the slave, an "Eleftherios". This means "one who has freedom" or one who is free. The highest part of being rich, the highest level, was to become a "Chorigoi" which means "Creator of Public Works".

These people literally safeguarded the freedoms of people and Nation States so that they wouldn't fall into slavery to other towns, and made sure people were sustained so they wouldn't turn into corruption or mistakes.

It also was a total benefit for leaders to be rich before they took public office, so that they wouldn't be bribed or coerced financially. Jews enslaved all the kings they could get their hands on because quite a few were idiotic enough to do exuberant lifestyles they couldn't afford. Then the jew came with the borrowing and they made them into slaves.

Of course, the above people, the "Chorigoi" had also the extensive freedom to enjoy whatever there is in life on a personal level, with all the lavishness and beauties of life. Yet their primary reason, was to build things for the planet and for its progression. That is also from a universal purpose perspective, why an individual can accumulate so much power.

The "rich class" of today, is rather poor in spirit, or we might even say bankrupt in wisdom of the heart and spirit.

Looking at Klaus Schwab and others, they are just not only serving the enemy, but they don't really care about humanity whatsoever. If Klaus wasn't himself so corrupted and distorted on a soul level, riches or poverty, he would never be engaging in all this crusade to destroy all the freedoms of mankind. These people aren't problematic "because" they are rich, but they are rich people with many problems.

The fact one is rich doesn't mean that one does not have inner problems to work on. In fact, the amount of riches that many of these people have can turn them into insane or into states of maximum delusion, which later on can bleed on humanity. Their way of lording over for people is psychopathic and warped.

In fact, many of them consider themselves to be "God", while they are nowhere near close to this level. Klaus is an old man that has few years of life, but things that by clinging and abusing humanity, this will gain him anything. Yet because of this lack of wisdom, these people can also become tyrannical and evil. Add the jews into this mix and you have a toxic combination of psychopathy that is dangerous for life.

Charity, giving money, this can help. However, without a proper mind and plan on how to funnel the resources [of which most of these organizations just steal the money] there is no progress and no creation whatsoever. What Trump said about the President of UNICEF driving a Rolls Royce is a fact. These organizations keep lying to people that just bucks thrown at them is going to help anyone.

Most of them steal all of it, with only 10% or if even this really reaching the people that need help. And the way they are "given help" is the same bullshit of christianity. No advice given, no infrastructure made, no real changes in the life of people, no creation of a lifestyle or mindset for better opportunities. Just feeding them a necessary bottle of water and a cup of food, and that's it.

Christian churches feed people once every so often to keep them poor and without having a penny, and then they feed them once or twice a month to just claim that they "Help the poor". That's coming from the Trillion Dollars "House of the meek" and "House of Charity".

I could give a thousand per month to a beggar on the street and unless they are decided internally in themselves they want to grow out of this, and change all their mentality and approach about life, nothing will change. The Chinese idiom of "if you care about a man truly, don't give them a fish, but teach them how to fish" applies here strongly.

They do not however save the poor, because they do not teach them anything on how to escape that situation. If this situation was escaped from on a universal level, the "Church" would lose its meaning for existence, as the Christian Church thrives on slavery and poverty. They want people to be broke, sick, retarded, and everything worse there is to be. Christianity would have no place in a world where this whole situation didn't occur.

As a vampire drinks blood, so do these people drink people's misery, and as the vampire drinks blood and leaves a victim without any life. They leave the people alive until they have just enough blood to not die, wait for them to refill, and then drink again until the people are dead. So do the church and Christianity ensure the constant continuation of suffering only so that they can profit from it. This is done ad nauseum and repeatedly.

I want to also highlight something important here. I see people here writing bogus nonsense all the time about wealth. There is nothing negative about wealth, money or that type of power. Alongside of all the powers, there is also the financial. If you haven't noticed, the enemy pulls all these stunts based on spiritual power, political power, financial power, the list goes.

There are rich people who will be total crackpots and have undeserved wealth, or only engage in the stupidest things with it. That says nothing about riches in itself. There have been people who have done glorious things with money and management of resources, and people who have done nothing. There are people who can grow the wealth of a civilization, and others who can diminish it.

I am sure everyone knows at least one person or can have an example of such a person in mind. That's misuse of one's power, and it's not something that happens only about wealth. Then you have rich people, who actually make sure everyone around them is fine, keep generating income, put their money behind great works, or make good things for humanity. Families, things society needs, are backed by them. And of course, they take care of themselves.

Going back to Elon Musk's claims, he literally destroyed the organization that made up these bogus emotional claims. 6 billion won't solve any world hunger at all.

With 6 billion, you might not even save a city, simply because just throwing money into things doesn't really mean they will grow. Management, lack of corruption, and clear absolute plans have to exist for anything to grow and prosper. People have to also be internally transformed.

Elon Musk, despite of wanting to chip people because of whatever reason, he understands this fact simply because he is a skilled business world person.

Anyway, the point here isn't about him. Just pay attention and whenever you hear about this bogus nonsense that throwing money into some "Charity" is simply going to make all problems vanish like a magic wand, these are lies. If you do charity, make sure you see your own money reaching the destination and the goal, as many charities tend to steal and are fronts for merely stealing funds. Jews are raking in billions yearly from fake ass charities.

There are also quite a few charities that give their life and soul into it, and make excessive social impact and do the good thing. These deserve help. One must make their own research here.

In closing, no, 6 billion won't solve any world hunger. The changing of human life and human understanding however, might. The same goes for technology and rising new technologies.
