The recent assassination of general Qasem Soleimani (January 3, 2020) is revealing. Soleimani was responsible for saving Assad's government from ISIS and other Sunni terrorist forces created by Israel, Saudi Arabia, and the Jewish-controlled US. Soleimani was also responsible for saving Baghdad and Iraq from falling to ISIS, and he rallied thousands of Iraqis to the defense of Baghdad. This resulted in the creation of large para-military forces that have connections with Iran. Soleimani was in some statements the number two man in the Iranian government. Soleimani was assassinated before a diplomatic mission, from the leader of Iran Ali Khamenei to the president of Iraq, with a message on creating a plan for peace talks with the Saudis to deescalate tensions in the Gulf. Soleimani was traveling as an open diplomat on a mission of peace.

Numerous journalists, including a former American military intelligence officer, UN inspector, and author Scott Ritter, have stated that the Washington administration is lying about the reasons for the assassination of Soleimani.

On October 21, 2005, Ritter was interviewed by Amy Goodman of the radio and TV show Democracy Now! and commented on his earlier statements about United States policy toward Iran, as they had been reported by some sources.

"I was very clear, based upon the information given to me, and it's 100% accurate, that in October 2004, the President of the United States ordered the Pentagon to be prepared to launch military strikes against Iran as of June 2005. That means, have all the resources in place so that if the President orders it, the bombing can begin. It doesn't mean that the bombing is going [to] begin in June. And a lot of people went, "Ah, you said they were going to attack in June." Absolutely not. " [1]

"The EU-3 would rather continue to participate in fraudulent diplomacy rather than confront the hard truth—that it is the United States, and not Iran, that is operating outside international law when it comes to the issue of Iran's nuclear program. " [2]

Something that has come out in the news recently is that another Iranian official in Yemen was targeted, but this assassination failed. Soleimani was the most successful leader of the Quds Force, which is the extraterritorial force of Iran. This assassination was done for one reason - the war. The assassination of Soleimani is meant to remove the leadership of the Quds Force, which could successfully oppose Israeli plans and the (((American forces))) in the Middle East. It was also done to attempt to weaken the pro-Iranian forces fighting Saudi forces in Yemen. Obama had the opportunity to assassinate Soleimani in 2015 and refused because the intelligence report stated it would be a move that would cause serious blowback. Millions of Iranians protested the assassination of Soleimani and now Iraq and Iran are enraged to the extreme. Soleimani is considered the greatest national hero in Iran in these times. Some reports stated that Mossad attempted to assassinate Soleimani last year but failed.

The only group that benefitted from Soleimani's assassination was Israel and the Jews. Soleimani's diplomatic abilities to create peace talks and help end the escalation of the conflict obviously aren't important to the West. The Israelis had America pull the trigger to fan the conflict.

According to the reports, the Iranian strike on the American airbase, the so-called Operation Martyr Soleimani (January 8, 2020), is simply a warning shot. The Iranian government has worked to contain the conflict, but due to the situation had to react somehow. Iran does not want a war, but the Jews do.
