

The Lesson of Insane Clown Posse

Years ago when Insane Clown Posse became big and the Juggalo fandom started their subculture, I knew people who were into this and they showed this subculture to me.

I noticed the entire subculture is based on resentment, self-hatred, hatred for others deemed to be in the wrong class, and hatred for society in general. And also a preached attitude of open destruction for these groups and society in general. Their main message expressed in their songs, in which they preach the destruction of all races, classes, nations and cultures, is to come together into a big blob of nothingness in an open anarcho-communist global society in which everything that triggers their resentments is destroyed so they don't have to be triggered anymore. Rather than that they should just go to therapy. The entire message of Insane Clown Posse is literally open Communism.

Then Insane Clown Posse comes out and admits they are Fundamentalist Christians and have been indoctrinating their fans into Christianity the entire time secretly through their music and subculture.

What is the lesson? The basic social psychology of Christianity is that of Communism which is what was found in psychological reports from the 1920's that compared Communists with Fundamentalist Christians and found that they share the same psychology. It also shows that Insane Clown Posse, while promoting a Christian message in a hidden secular fashion, was just promoting literal Communism. The only difference between Christianity and Communism is that one has a dead Jew on a stick. So what? Just dig up Marx and slap his dead body on two pieces of wood. You have the same program.
