

Runic Meaning

Rune means logos in the sense of the absolute and its emanations. Each rune is a divine animation of the absolute. The Egyptian Neters are their name for the Gods. The letters of the Neters, or Divinities that make up the logos are the Param Brahman. "God [Brahman] is the word" was stolen from this metaphysical science in the east. In the original Sanskrit text, God is the word, is Brahman, and is Aum. The Absolute is the letters that form existence. The enemy turned the absolute, the Brahman into a literal personality. Brahman is the element of spirit, which is the property of sound, which is light, number, and form, of which all existence is a manifestation. That's all. The AUM is Brahman in the east, is the trinity of Brahman, is Brahma, Visnu, and Shiva. Each of the three deities represent each letter of AUM and its property that makes existence, making Brahman. This is why number was symbolically started at three in the East and the West. Tri...inity. Tri is three in Sanskrit.

Each Letter has a number and the meaning of the number is within the meaning of the Divinity that rules the letter and number. Each has their own symbols, myths, and properties. Rauda relates to the word Rune.

Odin is the letter A, and A is the breath or prana. Odin breathes the breath of life into Ask and Ambla, the first two beings created by Odin from the wood of the two trees, which is the element of Ether, the letter A. The universe is stated to be the manifestation of this primordial sound.

The Rauda rune in its hieroglyph is a wheel with the solar cross. The name of Rauda means "Wheel". The meaning of this is the cosmic wheel, the wheel of Dharma. The solar cross is also the five elements, which is also the chakras. This is the sun god and the chakras are called the souls of RA in Egypt. The number 5 relates to the elements, which relate to the chakras as well and to the structure of existence, which is the sun god RA, or Rauda, the pentacle. In the east they still vibrate RAM into the chakras to empower them all. You can find the RA meditation in the Satanic Kabbalah in more detail. RA is the fire that purifies the soul.

April 22, 2016

Joy of Satan Forums Contributions