

Spiritual Satanism: The Reason Why Humanity Fell

Postby HP. Hoodedcobra666 » Mon Dec 17, 2018 12:52 pm

I will explain this painful fact, which remains a painful fact that needs to be fixed. I decided to include this in this series because it's a both very basic and advanced subject that requires clarification, and the series will have a purpose to clean up some matters in a clear and coherent manner.

The situation with humanity is that we are an unfinished work. We are something in the making. We are not there to our fullest potential yet, if there is such a thing as an end to development that is, which, there is not. Satan and the Gods have explained to me on the subject, but I will relate the simple point, even if you generate a proper human being in everything such as form, body, and anything else, they still require formative time in the span of thousands of years or a few generations in order to finally grasp and understand spiritual concepts and train on them, to reach up to 'them' or be able to relate to them in a more direct manner. This is because this process deals with the self understanding the self. This is also why the Gods were here after our development helping us out and guiding us.

Even after they 'departed', they maintained contact with us astrally, to guide us to finish this process of development. With the rising of the enemy, the ability and lines of communications were lost, but regardless, our Gods did not stop neither from fighting the enemy, nor from helping us by unseen now, means, to 'finish' this work on ourselves.

As to the perfection of the human form in it's best fashion, this is something all scientific and otherwise minds have understood and admired. Man is a work of art as far as the species goes. While he can always improve, the mind behind the creation of man was one of the greatest minds, that is, Satan and the Gods who genetically engineered us. The supernal wisdom of the human body is beyond understanding. For the most part even our most advanced 'scientists' today are just crawling in trying to understand the marvel of this work, it's processes and functions. This is because the body is supposed to house something even greater.

This is because the process of self-realization through the soul takes time and doesn't come for free. And during the process like dough which will not become bread, if this process is not done properly (this is why the Gods were here and almost finished it) all you are left with is an unfinished work that can fall down and collapse unto itself. This is generally how works are manifested into this world, and everything has a formative stage, on which, something can be altered, corrupted, and destroyed.

The knowledge however on how to complete this work of the human being was left behind by the Gods who were running a 'global culture' (not globalist) at the time, and as such, people could complete the Magnum Opus and reach their higher potential. It also appears this process was happening for many thousands of years, and people did actually did the Magnum Opus, both then and afterwards when they left.

There are Demons who are around 10 thousand years old many of which are in the Goetia or the Demonology section. As Demon is a code name for the human soul on an elevated level of power and wisdom used by Ancient Greeks, a mixed term for Gods and people who have ascended. So there are ranging Demons of ranging powers in there. Just to be clear to not get this defiled as usual by the imaginative, 10 thousand years in their level of development is around 2 million in our development, given the type of civilization we have today. And their level of development is largely incomprehensible by the human mind at this point and with the things we 'know'.

We are not the same as them or as they are. This should be common knowledge. Actually, within what we call 'humanity' we have a ranging order of rank from 'people' lower than animals, to people who are way more developed. This understanding was common knowledge up until the last century, but this century people fancy to call everyone 'human' and give them 'human rights' to all vermin before any aspect of humanity is proven and regardless of shown behavior. This has nothing to do with any ego either, it's just natural observational fact that one observes if they have an open mind. Decadence and the enemy exists and has existed but not everyone sinks into it the same way do they.

So the honest approach of the situation is that there is not only the enemy causing this downfall, but things in humans themselves that need serious fixing because they are not finalized yet. This process takes a while, and is not impossible. As to if everyone will be capable of this, dreamily and idealistically, how beautiful it would be, but realistically speaking the statement is simple: "Many will want to join at the last minute but it will be too late to do so".

Instantly when the enemy came into notice that this process was taking place into earth of developing us, it's written there was an attack and a sort of war on the solar system to stop this process from finalization for reasons explained in their own bible. The "Elohim" which is a plural were worried they would be 'usurped' from their position in the 'heavens', so 'god', the hive mind, attacked. This is the beginning of the jewish war on earth.

The fact we are against jews is not something extremely mystical, it's something factual and simple. The jews stroke a bargain with these entities to enslave the planet on their behalf, reverse and destroy the work of the gods, and have gains as a race because of such work, against all other people. This is the 'covenant' they signed with them. To this very day, as rabbis admit, they work with ET's as we work with our own through the centuries, so as to bring about the annihilation of the spirituality of mankind. We owe many interesting things to the jews like christianity, islam, judaism, nuclear energy capable of erasing our existence, communism. The jews on their own have testified to the ownership of these things with great pride.

Indeed, there isn't anything professed by us that the jews haven't professed about themselves, on their own, since forever. People somehow criminalize someone who transfers the words of someone who did something and admitted to doing this. People be hating on the messenger, because they cannot handle the message.

If one considers the statement of the JoS exaggerated because it doesn't fit their head, and consider the jews are more 'sensible' in that regard and less 'tin foil hatted', I prompt these people to go read what some jews themselves have to say on the subject of racial exterminations under code names such as Amalek or Esav (European subgroups), bastardizing the goyim, destroying everyone spiritually, the fathering of Islam from Judaism, the creation of christianity by them directly, burning and destroying the world's information centers like Alexandria's Library, and seeing a bit around them as the "Abrahamic religions" have brought the world into a stalemate of development for around 20 centuries straight. Through time which we went from pyramid creation to being unable to do calculus for 17 centuries.

The proof of their work should be enough, but with the brainwashing and retardation going on today on this planet, the denial levels are also quite high, which is changing gradually.

Then there are other idiots who inwardly believe that Islam or even Xianity do represent in whatever form, the old religions. The stupidity here is apparent. Many of these people also think that the situation is 'above everyone's heads' because they are too stupid to understand their own rambling and bullshit. This is like taking a broken jewish carrier today and saying that since it follows a few basic roles of aerodynamics, this makes it an airplane.

As for the situation of the creation of man, Satan did not create us for 'free', anymore than a parent does not create children mindlessly or for 'free'. There are a few expectations the Gods would like us to fit in, for our greater good and to be able to live. However, some of the children can choose to not help back their own father, and they can turn to ignorance, even if their parent loves them and cares for them, but also, if one becomes a sworn enemy of their father, they can also expect the father to not like them at all. The laws of nature in themselves are vague in regards to choices and one can accept or reject these things, and where there is free choice, one can choose to do just about anything within their own grasping of power.

The original intention was to us to become Gods and to take part in the universal order of things in our own level of development like all the other advanced beings in the universe are doing. We were definitely not destined to be slaves as many idiots claim as it's counter productive to create highly intelligent slaves or slaves that can potentially turn back at you and attack you later. It's even more retarded, if you want slaves, to give them spiritual knowledge of any sort. This is why the enemy removes this, because this is what they want to turn us into: Slaves. What cannot be destroyed, is instead, corrupted.

The castrations the enemy is causing to us today, the Gods, if they wanted slaves, could have caused merely by design, such as the absence of specific organs in the human body, such as the reproductive organs, or the pineal gland. Slaves should be disposable and not have the ability to reproduce, for better management. If we were to only slave for the Gods, they would make a few generations of us with programmed DNA collapse at the reproductive level, and we would be done with and be disposed later. So all these stupid myths of the likes of Zecharia the Jew Stichin are essentially proven wrong by the default of reality.

One such castration is the destruction or elimination of the Pineal gland from the structure of man. This is warned by the Egyptian Pyramid texts in Egypt that the Gods dictated, major part of the Egyptian religion was rectification and taking proper care and empowering the 3rd eye or Pineal gland. It's also written explicitly there the "Gem of the Gods" will be turned out and stopped existing if people do not work on it. These were all recognized to be from the Gods and the Egyptians were fighting to preserve these. The same thing goes for other biological traits which many dismiss as useless. Compared to other animals, man, for his capabilities mental and otherwise, has a superior design.

As for if the Gods are only helping us out, this has to be hard, as the enemy is also an expansive force which seems to attack many places, not just our own. The Gods have a lot of 'operations' they are undergoing in the same time and we were one of these within the time spectrum.

Additionally, this is life, and this universe has nasty beings in it, some of which if one pays attention literally abducted Satan's children and they are using them against him en-masse. The Gods that were worshiped by all people a few thousand years back, are now stoned in the form of idols, and attacked and banished from everywhere in existence. This technique has also been done in warfare before and is still being practiced today in more materialized forms. For example, Persians abducted Greek kids of pure stock, raised them as 'Persians', and put them as heads to their military command in order to wage war back to the Greeks. Which is an irony, of using one's own stock to destroy them as your enemy. Artemisia was an example of this situation.

The influence of the Gods on mankind is to such an extent, that one can honestly say humanity wouldn't have figured out even the hut if it were not for the Gods. It's easy to do something after you are taught how to do it, or read it in a book, but the original capability to create and generate this from scratch is what is defining. This is why you have 1 Tesla per 100,000,000 normal people on the planet, and this is because few humans are as inventive or as advanced. The Gods taught us everything from simple agriculture, to music, to cultivation of animals, to the justice system, to even things like...Makeup, how to make weaponry etc.

Much of this teaching of civilization is credited to Azazel, and other Demons, who, in Babylonian tablets was written to have taught women the "Way of the dress" and the "Painting of beautifying the Face" such as what we call today makeup.

These reasons above are why Islam and Jews and Xians whine on the Demons. They made our life meaningful and turned us away from being useless worthless animals on the field in human form. Makes you wonder what grade of retard one has to be, and what grade of evil, to complain about the fact they are no longer an animal of the field.

Every aspect of our civilization is plated into the symbols and is still as it was in many ways, with the sole difference, it's perverted and dedicated to other and hostile entities, and controlled by enemies who want the worst of us. Fundamentally however anything that made life possible and worthwhile, came from the Gods, from the knowledge of writing, to makeup, to advanced architecture, to farming which is how we were able to be kept alive.

Our civilizations, the present and the ones gone, always belonged to and were dedicated to the Gods. Presently, they are taken over and perverted, but since we are the creators of these, we always go back and recreate on what is internally inside us, re-manifesting again and again similar types of the civilizations that are born from within us, so we can advance spiritually into their context.

As for the foolish primitivists who hate on civilization, then they also hate in spiritual progress. Spiritual progress is possible to happen within the context of a civilization, simply because, it cannot happen outside of it. You cannot be taking 4 hours a day to light a camp fire, and all the day hunting with a spear, then a whole day hungry, and eating poisonous mushrooms in the jungle and expecting to advance spiritually to your fullest extent.

Part of the creation of civilization is done so people can advance in mental, spiritual, or material needs advance. If we did not have spiritual and intellectual or advanced needs, there would be no need of civilization, and we would be just less hairy monkeys and be just happy with it.

The above is why macro-cosmically the Magnum Opus is portrayed as the process creation of the inner spiritual city or the 'perfect civilization' which many people took literally later.

By recreating ourselves and advancing we are also restoring our world back again to clear order. When this process fails to get done, then the outer world collapses as well, as people are the hands and feet that work on this world, because the people on their inside just lose the vitality to procure and advance further. To reverse and to prevent this process safeguards us from "Humanity's Fall", and to banish it permanently results in the Golden Age which is an age of mass spiritual development.
