

The End of the Democrats and What Must Happen from Such

The Democratic Party is finished. In the long future, it will end in a split between the Bernie Bro types and the older money Democrats. This is already occurring, during the last elections and after. Many of the progressives were talking about trying to reform the Party from within to get the money Democrats out. That is impossible and not going to happen. The major exodus out of the Democratic Party during the last election to other third Parties over this divide is going to end up in a kind of New Democratic progressive movement.

However this will fall if they cling to cultural Marxist progressive ideology. The 2016 election was the result of America being fed up with such. People are not going to vote for pink haired, pinko progressive communists en masse.

If such a third wave movement has a chance, it must leave the dross behind and focus on central things such as.....

- Ending private banking monopolies, printing a debt free currency issued by Congress based on the value of goods and services. In such, greatly lowering the income tax, which is paid to the private banking cartels of the Fed as fees of usury, which is a crime and must be made a crime by law.
- Lowering and removing of taxes in general.
- Abolishing the debt from the effects of criminal usury.
- Enforcing anti-monopoly laws on global corporations, ending their manipulation of government, and ending the growing wage slave plantation such monopolies are putting people on in America.
- Ending the NSA, the deep state, and all surveillance state systems.
- Protecting and establishing the Constitution as law only and repealing all unconstitutional laws nation wide.
- Making Internet access a necessity that is not to be charged for, placing it under the protection of the First Amendment and Constitution of America.
- Economic protections for the American People and workers that ensure American industries are not sent to other nations. All practices that drive down wages will be illegal. People must be paid a minimum wage with which they can support themselves and their family, but not so exorbitant that it drives inflation that nullifies the higher wage. This allows the workers and their families to afford needed resources and invests in the economy in general by having the money to buy goods and services and thus keeps the wheel of industry going.

- The creation of new many industries by investing in new areas of technology, farming, medicine, and creative ideas in general to be turned into businesses with zero-interest loans from the government thus bypassing the need for the criminal stock market, creating a new economy.
- Putting held back technologies into the market, such as wireless energy.
- Enforcing regulations on corporations, such as ordering the use of proper environmentally clean procedures and biodegradable plastics.
- Banning harmful foodstuffs and chemicals.
- Affordable healthcare for the American People.
- Total reform of the educational system.

Policies such as these need to happen, and the end of the Democrats will be the start of a movement for such reforms.

Alexander wrote:

Yes, it's over for the old Democrat party, the party will be transformed (kinda like labour in the UK) it will become a socialist/POC party, and that doesn't mean they will never win any elections, far from it, as soon as Trump is out of office (even now, there's only so much he could do), they will push for more open borders (even the old white democrats are now calling for abolishing ICE) tens of millions of brown migrants will invade, everyone gets a pathway to citizenship, and with the dwindling percentage of the white population (40% are leftist anyway), it's over for white America and the Republican party.

They won't win anything as a socialist party running on a platform of more taxes, lower wages, fewer jobs, and more political correctness that is state mandated. That was the platform Hillary ran on, and look what happened in the last election.

Trump is transforming the Republicans into Trump Republicans. This is identical to how the Party was transformed under Reagan, which gave them a major wave of victory and three terms. The Republicans are probably going to have all three branches of government under control by the end of Trump's time in office. After the midterms, the Republicans are probably going to have enough people to finally pass all the immigration reforms. That is why Trump told them to hold off till this time, because more Democrats are going to be out of office.

Stormblood wrote:

Why not free healthcare, instead of just "affordable"?

Free healthcare does not exist. You're paying for it with your tax dollars. It's really just affordable health care, but with the cost distributed among the population like group insurance. With cleaning up the food supply and the atmosphere, most people are not going to be that sick most of the time. Also, with new medical technologies what was once costly can be done quickly and low cost and work. There are machines that can cure cancer in ten minutes. The Jewish oligarchs created the FDA to push out all working cancer cures and other cures to create a monopoly on hyper expensive and dangerous treatments. The Jews are the problem with all this. They poison the food supply with their ownership of the six major food companies and then also inflate the cost of healthcare and make it low quality. There must be governmental regulations on the price of medical treatments. It must be based on how much money went into the development of such treatments and not inflated unreasonably.

HailVictory88 wrote:

Thanks for your input. I hope Ginsburg is the next one to leave, it would be funny to see the liberals flip out over her getting replaced with some moderately sane Gentile.

That crazy Jew bitch admits she uses the Talmud to guide her decisions on the bench. The same Jewish Talmud that states Gentiles are not Human beings and Jews are. Funny how the left never complains that a Jewish religious fanatic is using racist Jewish texts to make laws with.

June 29, 2018

Joy of Satan Forums Contributions