

The Word Torah Means Book of Spells

The Kabbalah writings state the Hebrew letters relate to the black flame and have two forms. The white form is the visible written form and the black form is invisible. In Kabbalistic occult teachings, the black or dark flame is astral light, which is vibration of the letters. This means the Hebrew letters each have a vibrational pattern, and that is the real power of the letters. The word Torah means the Wheel of darkness in Hebrew, which means putting the written letters into vibration by speaking the verses in the Torah to generate the vortex (wheel) of energy for the Jews to use for their own occult purposes. In basic terms, the word Torah just literally means Book of Spells.

The other aspect is that the Hebrew letters are also charged to connect to and radiate this energy as talismans into the material from the astral, which is why Jews will use different talismans of the 72 names as amulets to manifest their purpose. The "god" of the Jews has 22 names, which are the 22 Hebrew letters in Judaism. This is why the Torah is called the body of their god in Judaism. It's made from the 22 letters. That's all the Jewish god is. Just the 22 Hebrew letters that generate the vortex of energy for their occult workings and power.

The Jewish Torah is nothing but a Kabbalistic spell book. Even the word Torah just means book of spells.

What that means is the Final RTR, which reverses each of these 22 letters, is the total dissipation of the vortex of power the Jews use to enslave the word through. The Kabbalistic occult writings of the Rabbis state that the way to undo a spell in Hebrew is to reverse the spell in Hebrew. This means reversing the 22 letters undoes the entire Torah.

Sources

The Tree of Souls, Howard Schwartz

The Wisdom of the Hebrew Alphabet, Rabbi Munk

The Hermetic Tradition, Julius Evola

July 20, 2019

Joy of Satan Forums Contributions