

Wisdom, Spiritual Power And The Serpent

One can have major Siddhis and not be all that much wise or spiritually advanced. These can emerge from past lifetimes of spiritual advancement, randomness of birth, or accumulated or hereditary powers that may run into a family, passed upon the descendant. This can go down for many generations, and show up way later.

Specific people have been born that had all sorts of Siddhis either from birth or otherwise. Others may have events such as tragedies that bring these out for a limited or extended period of time, such as living in a life to death situation. They are really rare to find and an extreme minority, but they do exist.

Some of them live tragic lifetimes where they either lose control of them, have no clue how to put them to use, and essentially beings of higher order take notice of them and they destroy them really quickly. These people may end up killed, or enslaved, as someone who is born beautiful is abducted to live their whole lives to the likes of an enslaved prostitute. And yes, this is unfortunately real.

There are people who can do Pyrokinesis and not being all that "advanced" in this case, but in power, they are definitely advanced. Others may be able to do Telekinesis, and not be in particular "advanced" as far as the Serpent is concerned. The wisdom there is lacking a lot.

An example here is how many people, irrespective of being wise or advanced, can, if they devote their time into it, develop Siddhis. I have explained about this before, and all that is required to develop Siddhis is essentially just practice. This is well known in the East and this is why there are disclaimers on the practices, and warnings about "bad" people doing that type of stuff. It doesn't matter if one is bad in this context, all that matters is doing the practices, and one will become stronger.

Gradually these were watered down so there is no effect, but things like Power Meditation will always develop someone. In the case of these meditations, they are given by the Gods, are accurate, strong, and above all, they actually advance the mind and soul, and not just one's "power". They create wisdom. That aside, one is in this path to get closer to the Gods, and this proximity creates better understanding.

Outsiders do all sorts of stuff, most of this is a really poor investment, some people do seldom care about more, until they experience the drawbacks of what they have been doing. Much of this can go through lifetimes. For example a rare hypothetical case, one drains like an idiot the energies of random people doing "vampirism", and next lifetime they experience tragedies that are involved with this practice, but the conscious mind has forgotten what one has done, because of the reincarnation process.

Another such situation is a person summons hebrew angels, and they get all sorts of connections made, and then they go into their next lifetime and they suffer tragedies or end up dead in some sort of xian cult, or become slaves to a jew, or whatever, and they don't understand how this happened either.

Others may also experience literal damnation in a lifetime such as seeing these angels threatening them, abusing them, and making them into basket cases, showing them constant visions of this world dying in the apocalypse, and other crazy stuff, which is essentially only torture. But many people don't really go that far, this is only to illustrate an example.

Other people have some without even realizing it, such as Empathy. Many empaths are gradually driven insane as nobody teaches them or they cannot find answers in how to deal with this reality of their own empathy. One lives a life of suffering until they learn how to clean their soul, which many never do, and many can even end up in mental hospitals or heavily medicated because of this.

Worse is the situation because many of these things can be used by people who have no wisdom and/or understanding, and yes, anyone can develop these powers, without necessarily being a good or useful person in society, or a higher nature type of person.

Many people practice this garbage, such as energy vampires, or other idiots online, who use what little spiritual knowledge they have only to cause mayhem in their lives and that of other people, mindlessly. Many of these do not last or ever develop any real or astounding power, but still enough to ruin themselves. The internet is filled with them.

However this unclean form of spirituality is bound to end up someone in a disaster down the road. It may be sooner or later, but it definitely does have this kind of effect. This is the case as if running a fast car without knowing the police exists. One will eventually crash on a wall or get arrested. Or run out of gas. They reach a dead end and this may be less or more tragic. Others in total fear of this run back into xianity where the enemy uses them as convenient slaves and then disposes them.

A lot of people when they discover the minds has powers, of course, jump on the band wagon, and consider themselves extremely important or conflate the fact they have a couple powers with actually having understanding and/or wisdom, or knowledge. Types like this frequently show up here.

This arrogance is common in many of these types. They think that they are really "powerful", but from a broader standpoint, this is almost never really the case. The above level is a level created only by personal arrogance and one's advantage over the really lowly creatures, or people who have no spiritual background. Abuse may also take place.

The enemy loves this state of affairs and therefore has kept the "Occult" into a strange fearful nutshell, away from the knowledge of the "Goyim", and if anyone wants to ever get to know anything, they have to go through their hebrew flick.

This is why in many Occult books and in other schools of spiritual knowledge, have only had a few options to manage this, before the jewish era. One option is the with-holding of knowledge. This is positive in that this avoids misuse and negative in that the knowledge may actually be lost. Another way they go is that they create levels of knowledge and revelation, which has also advantages and disadvantages. Every way of going about this has advantages and disadvantages.

The advantages of the knowledge being open are far more than it being hidden, and this is why the Gods wanted the Joy of Satan known to all. They have nothing to hide.

To explain to you why powers may be developed, but this is not the most important thing, and why advancing and getting closer to the Gods and building understanding [which is related to the Serpent] is more important, I will explain to you below with a little story.

So there was a man who wanted to know about the future of his finances, and does scrying to see if any event is going to threaten his finances that he has all locked up in a very nice safe. He sees through the scrying that next week, at Friday, there is going to be a robber that will go to steal everything in his safe. The safe being in the house, days pass, and he stays there in front of the safe with a shotgun. Eventually, the robber comes exactly at the time his scrying told him the robber would come.

He sneaks in goes to the safe, and sees the guy standing with his shotgun there. The guy shoots to defend his safe, and misses, and the robber goes into a run. As he goes into a run, he exits the door, and at this particular given time it just happened the wife of the person was awake in the kitchen to get some water. She tries to get in the way, and the robber shoots her because she tried to stop him, and she drops dead. Eventually the man gets the robber with the shotgun, but loses his wife.

What the above should explain is really obvious. When one simply has "power", you may be able to see upwards to a decision of your understanding, and take actions where this is concerned. But when there is no wisdom, you have no clue how this may play out in your life or the life of other people. Adding the occult factor in this, like any other form of power, can cause effects such as the above.

The enemy may give power to specific people, and their system is solely based around this, but they never give them any form of wisdom. This is why Angelic magic revolves highly around using the angels who only come and do what they think that they should do, through a person, and never give people knowledge and/or understanding to do their own things. Even power is kept at a bare minimum.

What our Gods provide compared to the enemy is holistic, full, genuine spiritual teaching compared to the enemy. That benefits the soul deeply and makes one powerful, independent, and in the actual sense "one's own God". This is because our Gods have no need for slaves and lack of clarity, they are good beings, and to understand this one can have this obviously related to them as one advances.

Those who have advanced in this path know that the Gods give MEANINGFUL answers, and that they will insist on an answer. Not only answers do come, but they are MEANINGFUL and APPLICABLE. It's not just nonsense. It's things you can apply to get factually better in your life, existence, and so forth.

Spiritual advancement comes with many other meaningful abilities such as for example wisdom, ability to look into the future, a connectedness with life and/or the world in a profound way, and other things like that. These come up from the Serpent, what was the name of the Serpent was Sofia which means Wisdom, and is an interplay of the Ancient Greek word "Ofis", in the form of an anagram, and made into a female, which is the implied letter A to the end of it.

The actual name of the Serpent is literally...Satan which means Truth. Satan is hated because Satan gives...Wisdom... What does Satan state in the face of the enemy while sitting in their book? "And I will make thee as Gods, knowing of Good and Evil". A very True statement for which is the reason the whole enemy beef began. Satan is honest and wants to help humanity escape the bondage of being blind.

Satan also did not only give "Power" to humanity, he gave them the knowledge on how to use it, which is Understanding. This made the Hebrew thought form flip out in the hoax story.

The Serpent also largely gives profound depth of understanding, rather than simply giving only powers. It also gives the powers, but it also bestows a purity as in clarity of understanding. This is why it's important to clean the Soul in depth, deprogram the mind from enemy influences, remove curses, observe one's own thinking process, have bravery to undig one's weaknesses, and so forth.

Without the above one may build power but one will always be blind to a lot of important things in the Universe and/or their advancement.

In the East the word for purity is Agni, which ended up as in Agnos in Ancient Greek which means the purified one. Agnos is the state where this has been achieved. This metaphysical term about having a clean soul is also related to the cleansing by the fire, or the Kundalini Fire. The other word for cleanliness is called Katharos which means "the divided one", the dross has been divided from the pure.

What anyone who wants to "Raise the Serpent" should be doing, is primarily be at least to some extent familiar with one's own ancestral stories, study and meditate. This may look like really simple but there are levels to all deeds, which the practitioner will understand with the guidance from the Gods and also by actually be practicing. Breathing exercises done in your first month of dedication will not have the same meaning 10 years later, eventhough fundamentally it's the same practice.

Our myths, these exist in essentially all Indo-European cultures, in a similar manner, and they are supposed to speak to the Wisdom of the heart inside our souls. The purpose of these was to be put there as symbols so that as people advance they know they are on the good way, and/or exact knowledge or information about how they will move onto the next level. The final level being the Magnum Opus, which is also documented in itself. These were put forth by the Gods and very advanced people, so that we can use this as a guiding light and never get lost.

When one reads such a myth and they do not exactly understand what it is about, it means one has to do further meditation development. Eventually as one returns back [this may take years] the answers will be standing there in open sight. This is why the enemy is so absolutely keen in destroying the underlying Pagan culture. Sooner or later, and if the basics of spiritual advancement do exist, one will find these and the awakening will begin anew.
